Last night marauders in forcing an entrance to Dr. Samuel's office broke a large glass window. The noise from the falling glass scared them away. Dr. Samuel is in Lexington and probably the would be intruders were aware of his absence.

Now that the spring cleaning season is here it will not be out of place in intimating to the "boss" that in the order to make a complete job she must not overlook the back yard. See that the fences and outhouses are whitewashed, and all old rubbish, tin cans and ashpiles removed, in fact, pay as much attention to your premises as you do to the cleaning up of your house.

CALEB POWERS CASE

House Committee Will Act on Bill For His Relief

Caleb Powers was notified yesterday that the hearing of the bill for his relief will take place before the full Judiciary Committee of the House of Representatives at Washington on Saturday, April 28th.

The purpose is to amend the present law that where a person is deprived of an impartial trial in the State Court, as has been the case so far in Powers' several trials, a transfer may be made upon satisfactory showing to the Federal Court.

As the law now is, the case may be taken up on a writ of error and possibly reversed by the United States Court, but it must be sent back to the State Court for a retrial.

The case may proceed indefinitely under the present law, no matter how great his rights may be violated.

Should the Judiciary Committee, who will have charge of the case, desire it, one or more of the Attorneys representing Mr. Powers will proceed to Washington to furnish the desired information.

event, however, to be less than par, with accrued interest at the time of sale.

The bonds shall be in form and substance as hereinafter prescribed, and numbered consecutively from No. 1 to the number required, and shall be in denominations of five hundred dollars ($500) each, except that one may be for a smaller amount than said sum to cover any remaining fractional part of five hundred dollars ($500) said work may cost with appropriate interest coupons attached. They all shall bear date the 1st day of July, 1896, and shall be left in the hands of the Treasurer until negotiated, who shall be liable for the safekeeping thereof on his official bond.

Said bonds shall not be issued upon the faith and credit of the City of Maysville for the payment thereof, but the faith and credit of the City of Maysville shall be pledged for the sums realized upon the apportionment against the property for the cost of the paving and curbing said streets as in this ordinance provided, only after the same shall have been collected and paid to the Treasurer, as in this ordinance provided; and said bonds shall be redeemable and payable not on the faith and credit of the city, but out of, and secured by, the on the assessments to be made and apportioned against said lots and parts of lots or lands abutting on the streets and parts of the streets so herein ordered to be paved and curbed. All money paid, received or collected upon the assessments against the lots, as in this ordinance provided to be made, and interest on the deferred annual payments, as provided in said section No. 5 of said acts, approved March 24, 1894, and all money arising from the sale of bonds herein provided for shall be kept by the City Treasurer in a separate fund to be known as the Street Improvement Fund; and said bonds shall be paid out of the amount realized upon said assessments to be made and apportioned upon the said properties abutting upon said streets and parts of streets as above, and said assessments secured, paid and collected as provided for in like cases in Section 5 of Act of the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, entitled "An Act to Amend an Act for the Government of Cities of the Fourth Class; approved June 23, 1893," and approved March 24, 1894, and being Sections 355 and 356 of the Kentucky Statutes.

Section 7. All moneys received from the assessments in this ordinance provided to be made, shall be appropriated and paid out upon the order of the Board of Council upon the City Treasurer, and for the payment of the interest and redemption of the bonds which may be issued for the payments herein provided for and for no other purpose.

Section 8. The cost of said improvements, assessed against any piece of ground or owner thereof, shall not exceed one-half of the value of such ground after improvements are made, excluding the value of all buildings and other improvements upon the property so improved.

Section 9. Said bonds shall be in substance, form and effect as follows, except as to the consecutive number to cover said fractional part of $500 provi-

"My little son, when about a year and a half old, began to have sores come out on his face. I had a physician treat him, but the sores grew worse. Then they began to come on his arms, then on other parts of his body, and then one came on his chest, worse than the others. Then I called another physician.

"What have you here?" said the Mayor, addressing the Policeman.

"Well, your Honor," began the officer as he wiped beads of perspiration from his brow, due to exertion in bringing his prisoners to the Bar of Justice, "this one," pointing to the younger of the two, "is Porter Combes, and the other Ed. Gallett, both residents of the West End, small but tough."

They gained an entrance into the home of a widow woman named Flitz, living in Second between Short and Lower streets, and after they got through demolishing things the place looked like it had been struck with a Kansas cyclone. Flour and groceries, the poor woman's week's supply, were scattered all over the floor and coal-oil poured on it. Garments were taken from the bureau drawers and scattered over the floor and soiled with water. A clock was carried off the mantel, taken out into the yard and broken to pieces. Still more were carried away. If they had not been interrupted there is no telling what they would not have done.

The boys were let go on the promise of their parents to compensate Mrs. Flitz for the loss she had sustained.

MRS. ELVIRA M. CHAMBERLAIN.

Mrs. Elvira Martin Chamberlain, aged 73, died at her home at Wade's Mills, Clark county, Monday, after a short illness.

She was well known in this city and county, being a sister of Mrs. G. A. McCarthey of Commerce street.

Her remains were interred at Mt. Sterling Tuesday.

YOUNG TOUGHS

West End Youngsters Who Have Made a Good Start

Yesterday afternoon Officer Tolle marched into the Police Courtroom leading by the hand two ragged, dirty little chaps whose ages ranged one six and the other possibly a year older, and brought them to a stand-still before Mayor Stillecup, who happened to be the only city official present at the time.

"What have you here?" said the Mayor, addressing the Policeman.

"Well, your Honor," began the officer as he wiped beads of perspiration from his brow, due to exertion in bringing his prisoners to the Bar of Justice, "this one," pointing to the younger of the two, "is Porter Combes, and the other Ed. Gallett, both residents of the West End, small but tough."

Marvelous cures are reported from all parts of the country by women who have been cured, trained nurses who have witnessed cures and physicians who have recognized the virtue in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and are fair enough to give credit where it is due. If physicians dared to be frank and open, hundreds of them would acknowledge that they constantly prescribe Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in severe cases of female ills, as they know by experience that it will effect a cure.

Women who are troubled with painful or irregular periods, backache, bloating (or flatulence), weakness, displacements, inflammation, ulceration, that "bearing-down" feeling, dizziness, faintness, indigestion, nervous prostration or the blues, should take immediate action to ward off the serious consequences, and be restored to health and strength by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Any way write to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for advice. It's free and always helpful.

Thousands of Women Are Made Well and Strong

Success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Rests Upon the Fact that It Really Does Make Sick Women Well.

Thousands upon thousands of American women have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Their letters are on file in Mrs. Pinkham's office, and prove this statement to be a fact and not a mere boast.

Overshadowing indeed is the success of this great medicine, and compared with it all other medicines and treatment for women are experiments.

Why has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound accomplished such widespread results for good?

Why has it lived and thrived and done its glorious work for a quarter of a century?

Simply and surely because of its sterling worth. The reason no other medicine has even approached its success is plainly and positively because there is no other medicine in the world so good for women's ills.

The wonderful power of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound over the diseases of womankind is not because it is a stimulant—not because it is a palliative, but simply because it is the most wonderful tonic and restorer ever discovered to act directly upon the female system, positively curing disease and displacements and restoring health and vigor.

PEWS THAT CARRY A VOTE

Queen Custom of a Parish Church in England Dates Away Back.

The parish church of Chertsey possesses a curious anomaly, says the Sunday Strand. It has several pews in its gallery which are bought and sold by auction, just like a table or a chair, and these pews give their owners for the time being a legal right to vote at parliamentary elections in the division. Moreover, the owners of the pews have to pay the poor rate of £2 a year into the bargain—a privilege they are not so eager to use as the former one.

Many years ago the church wardens of Chertsey were at their wits' end in order to raise money for the restoration and repair of the sacred edifice, and they could find no solution to the question until some parishioners suggested that they should sell the gallery pews to the highest bidder. They accepted the idea and obtained a special act of parliament allowing them to do this, and also giving the privilege of a parliamentary vote. A pew was recently sold at Tokenhouse Yard for £50.

HE WAS COOLNESS ITSELF.

Philosopher Gives Practical Demonstration of the Value of His Pet Theory.

Perhaps there never was a man who so thoroughly believed in taking things coolly as Mr. Bulteel. The disadvantages of worry, and the foolishness of rush, no matter what circumstance might arise, was the never failing text upon which he hung many and many an improving discourse, says London Answer.

But, as so often happens, Mr. Bulteel's opportunities for putting his favorite theory into practice had been few, until one fatal night when he and his wife were aroused from their midnight slumber by the dread cry, "Fire!"

He was coolness itself.

"My dear," he said calmly to his wife, "the time has come when we will find in practice the value of what I have always preached. Dress yourself quickly, but keep cool."

In tense silence they busied themselves in the operation of quick but un hurried dressing. Then Mr. Bulteel slipped his watch into his waistcoat pocket, and they walked safely out of the burning building.

"There, my dear," he said to his wife, when the danger was over, "you see the great value of my philosophy of coolness. Now, if we had lost our heads—"

His wife glanced at him for the first time since the alarm had been given. "Yes, William," she said, sweetly, "your philosophy is both charming and useful; but really, dear, if I had been you I would have put on a pair of trousers!"

SIEGE COST 50,000 LIVES.

Persian Town Beset by Arabs Reduced in Population to That Extent.

Leland Buxton, who has returned from a tour of several months in the Persian gulf and in the Yemen, visited Sana, which was recently besieged by the rebel Arabs, says the London Telegraph. He states that he found Sana to be practically depopulated, having been reduced from a population of 70,000 to something like 20,000, as a result of the famine during the Arab siege. The Jews suffered terribly during this period.

rod, and almost the whole town is deserted. Sana, which, so far as he knows, has only been visited by a few Englishmen, has magnificent and large buildings, covered with decorations, and the town is surrounded by mud walls. On his way to the capital Mr. Buxton found villages had been destroyed by the Turkish artillery, and that a great portion of the route to Sana was entirely depopulated. Large numbers of skeletons and skulls marked the route.

The siege of Sana was attended by terrible suffering and starvation, and cannibalism occurred both among the Arabs and the Turks. The people were reduced to terrible straits, and one Turk himself admitted that he had killed and eaten three Arabs. The dogs, which are a characteristic feature of most eastern towns, had disappeared, both they and the cats having been used as food. The only European in Sana is an Itali an trader, who was in the place throughout the siege, and who has lived there for 20 years.

TOO MUCH STANAM—ETC.

Magistrate Was Not Equal to the Task of Writing It Down.

There was a Greek victory the other day, and it was won in New York, relates the Sun, of that city. "What's the prisoner's name?" asked Magistrate Finn of Policeman O'Brien, who had put forward a descendant of a hero of Thermopylae in the Tomb's court.

"Your honor—well—I can't say that I know it."

"What?" sharply exclaimed the magistrate.

"Well, yer honor—" began the policeman in a faltering voice.

"I don't know what's the matter with you policeman," snapped the magistrate. "How dare you bring a prisoner here without being able to tell me his name?"

"I can't speak Greek, yer honor," gasped O'Brien.

"What's your name?" queried the magistrate, scowling at the prisoner.

The prisoner looked the old man in the eye and replied to the magistrate's question. Then, with a chuckle, the prisoner shot off: "Stamana manakanapapadopoulos."

"Do you think I'm going to write that name?" thundered the astonished "Battery Dan."

SHOSHONE RESERVATION TO BE OPENED THIS SUMMER.

More Than a Million Acres Will Be Turned Over to Homeseekers and Prospectors by Uncle Sam.

Washington.—The opening of a portion of the Shoshone reservation in Wyoming, which is scheduled for some time this summer, promises to inaugurate a stampede of prospectors as well as settlers into that region.

Uncle Sam has thrown barriers around this reservation for many years and, notwithstanding the importunities of all classes of miners, has steadily refused to allow any explorations to be made. A few prospectors have ventured across the line, but were always driven back by watchful scouts.

Some of the prospectors in their brief stay secured specimens of minerals and the impression has now gone forth that portions of the ceded area are exceedingly rich in minerals of various kinds.

Congress at the last session passed the necessary legislation to open more than a million acres of this reservation to settlement and exploration. The agricultural areas will be opened under the form adopted by the land office in opening the Sioux reservation in South Dakota, the selections being made by lottery.

With a mean average of rainfall of about 13 inches a year, the climate is too arid for the raising of crops without irrigation, but a large amount of water in the two rivers is available for this use. By the construction of irrigation canals wide areas of the basin lands could be brought under cultivation, especially if the flood waters of the mountain slopes could be stored for use during the dry season. The greater part of the region is well adapted for grazing and this undoubtedly will be its principal use. Fully two-thirds of the land bears a fair growth of nutritious grasses, and water for stock is within reach, excepting in a few districts.

In portions of the Owl Creek mountains granites and associated schists are exposed, containing gold and other ores, which may possibly occur in sufficient amount to be of economic importance, while in the southern end of the Shoshone range, which constitutes the northwestern corner of the ceded area, there may possibly be found a southern extension of the mineral veins of the Kirwin region. Coal deposits occur in the center of the ceded area, and, although probably they may not merit extensive working, they will afford a useful local supply.

The only settlers now in the ceded area are a few Indians and white men who have married squaws, and the ranches of these persons are widely scattered along the rivers and on the creeks near the foot of the mountains.

The "sheet anchor," the name given to the largest anchor carried by a vessel, is really "shote anchor," and so called because of its great weight, which makes it easy to shoot out in case of emergency.

The well known German animal dealer, Jarmach, has an agent in Siam hunting for the deer known as Cervus Schomburki. No specimen of this denizen of high ranges in Siam has ever been taken to Europe alive.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address, F. J. WASHERWOMAN AN AUTOIST

Michigan Woman Enjoys Riding About the Country on Sundays.

Battle Creek, Mich.—Mrs. Christian K. Huber, a Battle Creek washerwoman, who rides in an automobile purchased with money she earned over the tub, is the most conspicuous motor car enthusiast in the city.

Mrs. Huber does from 18 to 24 family washings a week, and makes about $25 in six days. She is a typical German woman, saving and respected in the community in which she lives.

For 18 years she has taken in washing, caring for five children and giving them a commendable education. She owns the house in which she lives, another house which she rents, and a farm. Besides this she laid aside $1,000 with which she bought her car.

When Sunday comes Mrs. Huber enjoys herself immensely riding through the country in her automobile. She says she forgets her home cares and enjoys the woods and the green fields. Then on Monday morning she "makes the rounds" with her machine, gathering the washings. She uses the machine also to deliver the clean clothes.

Mrs. Huber's house is modern and is better than the homes of many persons who earn large salaries. "That automobile," she said, "is the only recreation and comfort I have. Why have I not the same right to own one as a wealthy person?"

PICTURESQUE ROCK GONE.

Famous Old Landmark at Santa Monica Crumbles During Rain-storm.

Santa Monica, Cal.—After having withstood the storms for generations, picturesque Arch rock, one of the historic landmarks of the beach above Port Los Angeles, has finally succumbed to the action of the elements. The rainstorm of Saturday night proved it undoing. Sunday morning it was discovered that the natural arch that spanned the two columns through which the county road passed had crumbled and fallen, blocking traffic.

Arch rock was as old as the hills when the mission padres who preceded Father Junipero Serra to this bay first wended their way up the coast in search for an easy route to the Spanish missions situated farther north. It had no historic significance other than its natural beauty and romantic surroundings. It was a familiar landmark to all tourists, and tally-ho parties to this spot were included in all itineraries of the sightseers.

Indians and Mexicans who lived in this section early in the century have handed down its traditions as they received them from their sires and grandfathers, and according to their stories the rock was formerly much larger than it is now and when the sea was at its height the waters rushing through the cave would roar and reecho as the mad breakers would dash against the sides of the tunnel. Year by year it has wasted away. The storm of last March hastened the disintegration, and the arch was further weakened a year ago when the road builders tore away the loose stones that threatened to fall upon passersby.

PIPE COLD AIR FROM WELLS

Cheap and Effective House Cooling System Put in Use in Montana Town.

Helena, Mont.—The town of Thompson Falls, in Missoula county, has a strange system of cold storage. In the hottest days in summer it is possible to keep living rooms at a temperature of 55 degrees, and butter, eggs and meat are kept cool and fresh without the least trouble. The best part of the cold storage system is that it costs absolutely nothing after the plant has been installed.

Thompson Falls has a large number of wells that furnish cold, fresh air, which rushes upward all summer long. The wells are dug for water, but the supply of cold air is fully as important.

The wells of Thompson Falls are a little more than 60 feet in depth. The water veins are found in a gravel formation and are doubtless fed by the mountain snows at some distant place. The gravel is porous enough to admit of a freely moving current of air, which during the summer time rushes upward in currents strong enough to snuff out a match held over the wells. The utility of the cold air currents was first observed in 1884, when the Thompson Falls Mercantile company used the cool air to keep butter, eggs and meat in large quantities. The air can be piped in summer to rooms of houses. The wells are covered over tightly at the top, and large pipes tap the current a few feet below the surface of the ground. These pipes conduct the air to different rooms in nearby buildings.

For cold storage plants, house is built above the well and the air rushes upward continuously, keeping the temperature at an unvarying point.

SAN FRANCISCO WIPE OUT!

Fire Licked Up What Was Left By the Earthquake

More Than 2,500 Lives Lost, and $200,000,000 in Property Destroyed

The end is not yet! The calamity at San Francisco is the greatest of modern times.

Fire is still raging throughout the city, and there is no possibility of stopping it until it exhausts itself for want of material. The authorities are still dynamiting buildings in the vain hope of checking the progress of the flames, but a new misfortune has befallen the place. The explosives for blowing up buildings are becoming exhausted; even the powder of the Government Arsenal is all gone.

Every business building and half of the residence portion of the city is already destroyed, and the fire is spreading toward the palatial homes of Nob Hill.

General Funston, in command of the Department of the Pacific, wired the Secretary of War that all Government Buildings in the city are gone, all provision houses destroyed, that 200,000 people are already homeless, and asking for food and tents—which the War Department is sending as fast as possible.

Thieves caught plundering have been summarily shot by United States troops who are on guard duty.

A conservative estimate places the dead in San Francisco at 2,000, the injured more than double that number, with a property loss up to this time of $200,000,000, which will be greatly increased before the fire burns out.

The loss outside of San Francisco is greater than first reported.

Santa Rosa, one of the prettiest cities in the state, is a total wreck, with 10,000 homeless people.

Leland Stanford University at Palo Alto, 31 miles South of San Francisco, is badly damaged.

Agnews Insane Asylum at San Jose was destroyed, and 250 inmates killed.

Among other towns damaged or destroyed by earthquake or fire are Healdsburg, Geyserville, Cloverdale, Hopedale and Ukiah.

The lives lost outside of San Francisco will reach into thousands.

The damage by earthquake does not begin to compare with the loss by fire.

The heart of the business section of San Francisco has been destroyed, but fire has done the greater damage.

The freaks of the earthquake were many. Wide fissures were made in the streets of the city, street railways were twisted out of line and sewers and water pipes were bursted.

Provisions are being sold at fancy prices, and even water is being vendied by the glass.

Major Schmitz of San Francisco began early to take measures for the relief and protection of the city. Brigadier General Fred Funston was quickly communicated with and within a short time 1,000 Federal soldiers were garrisoning the streets and assisting the firemen in dynamiting the buildings.

General Funston realized that stern measures were necessary and gave orders that looters were to be shot at sight. Four men were summarily executed before the close of Wednesday.

At a meeting of citizens it was arranged that 1,400 tents would be pitched in Golden Gate Park and plans made to feed the destitute in the public squares. A Finance Committee was appointed and Mayor Schmitz was instructed to issue drafts for all funds needed by this committee.

One of the first orders issued by Chief of Police Dinau was the closing of every saloon in the city. This step was taken to prevent drunk-crazed men from rioting in the streets.

Market street, the scene of great havoc by the earthquake, sweeping from the ferry landing Southwesterly, divides San Francisco into two general parts, known by no more specific names than "North of Market" and "South of Market," and is the city's great artery of trade and traffic. The street is 125 feet wide and is occupied by four street car tracks with walkways between them. Half a mile from the water front on the South side of Market street is the Palace Hotel, the base from which all tourists make their reckoning and the heart of the city's activities.

The Palace Hotel, the rear of which was constantly threatened, was the scene of much excitement, the guests leaving in haste, many only with the clothing they wore.

The Parrott Building, in which were located the chambers of the State Supreme Court, the lower floor being devoted to an immense department store, was ruined, though its massive walls were not all destroyed. A little further down Market street the Academy of Sciences and the Jenno Flood Building and the History Building kindled and burned like so much tinder. Sparks carried across the wide street ignited the Phelan Building and the Army Headquarters of the Department of California, General Funston commanding, were burned.

Still nearing the Bay, the waters of which did the firemen good service along the docks, the fire took the Rialto Building, a handsome skyscraper, and converted scores of solid business blocks into smouldering piles of brick.

Banks and commercial houses, apposed to the fireproof, though not of modern build, burned quickly, and the roar of the flames could be heard even on the hills, which were out of the danger zone.

Here many thousands of people congregated and witnessed the awful scene. Great sheets of flame rose high in the heavens or rushed down some narrow street, joining midway between the sidewalks and making a horizontal chasm of the former passageways.

The dense smoke that arose from the entire business district spread out like an immense funnel and could have been seen for miles out at sea. Occasionally as some drughouse or place stored with chemicals was reached most fantastic effects were produced by the colored flames and smoke which rolled out against the darker background.

Some of California's most famous buildings are in ruins. The Cliff House, the great pleasure

DYSPEPSIA

"Having taken your wonderful "Cascarets" for three months and being entirely cured of stomach and dyspepsia, I think a word of praise is due to "Cascarets" for their wonderful composition, and the numerous other well-known remedies, but without avail. I can say that I have taken more in a day than all the others I have taken in a week."

James McGuire, 108 Mercer St., Jersey City, N.J.

Pleasant, Palatable, Potent, Tastes Good, Do Good, Never Sicken, Weaken or Grieve, Mr. & Mrs. Never sold in bulk. The genuine tablets stamped "C.O.O." Guaranteed to cure or your money back.
